Ocean County Business Association Installs New President
Elects New Board of Trustees for 2008-2010

(Toms River, July 1, 2008) Robert Ott, Jr. of Robert Ott Landscaping was installed as president of the Ocean County Business Association last week. Serving with him are first vice president Lisa McComsey, Flying Turtle Marketing; second vice president, Chuck Laing, Chuck Laing Construction Consultant, LLC; treasurer Glenn VanPell, Hutchins, Farrell, Meyer & Allison, P.A.; and secretary Jim Everett, Toms River Locksmith.

In addition, Linda O'Donnell of Flying Turtle Marketing and Pete Ferro of Ameritel Communications were elected to the organization's board of trustees for two-year terms, joining current board members Clare Bojus of The Creative Basket, Roger Lees of LNL Computers, and Gerald Rodelli of Pressto Graphics. Ott also appointed Paul Losseff of Holiday Opticians to the board; the presidential appointee serves a one-year term.

Founded in 1980, the OCBA is a category-exclusive organization, which assembles business owners and corporate decision makers in Ocean County. The group meets twice a month for lunch in Toms River, where individuals network, exchange leads and referrals, and hear craft talks on members' businesses. The group also sponsors a traveling speakers' bureau and disseminates a business magazine to people in the community.

Anyone interested in becoming a member is invited to call 866-606-OCBA (6222) for meeting times and information, or visit the Web site at www.OceanCountyBusinessAssociation.com.
